

Surviving in Lean Times: Collaboration, Communication & Cooperation

These are lean times in Wyoming—so when organizational budgets are being slashed, how do you make sure RIM and IG continue to be a priority? Our guest speakers will provide presentations that focus on strategies and tactics to help you keep RIM/IG relevant to your organization.

Andrew Ysasi, MS, CRM, CIPM, CIPP, PMP

Andrew is a respected executive who achieved senior roles using a proven business and technology acumen amassed over a 20-year career. Since 2007 he has provided senior leadership, led complex multimillion-dollar projects, and consulted with small local and multibillion-dollar companies at Kent Record Management, Inc.

In addition to his role at Kent Records, he is a former adjunct professor at Davenport University and taught global project management and the technology capstone courses. He is the founder of the career coaching company Admovio, where his resume review work and career advice is published on CIO.com in 2016. He founded myPACT that will enable individuals to showcase themselves to employers in a modern way and will be launching in 2017. He has served as a volunteer test writer on the Institute of Certified Records Managers (ICRM) Exam Development Committee (EDC) since 2012, and he is the Regent for the EDC for the 2017-2019 term. In 2016, Andrew was elected to the PRISM International Board of Directors.

Courtney Stone, CRM, IGP

Courtney Stone has been in Records and Information Management for three years. She is currently the Records and Retention Manager for AMOCO Federal Credit Union.

Courtney received her BA in Communications-Public Relations/Advertising from the University of Houston. She is a Certified Records Manager (CRM), an Information Governance Professional (IGP), a Certified Nautilus (ECM) Administrator, and a Certified Nautilus (ECM) Workflow Administrator.

Courtney has been a member of ARMA International and ARMA Houston since 2013. She is the Vice President of Communications for ARMA Houston, is a member of the Advisory Board for Document Strategy Forum, and is a volunteer test writer on the ICRM Exam Development Committee.
